Committee to Draft Resolution on War
In Orient

Geneva—(7)—Chinese sources said today that China had obtained from league powers, particularly Britain and France, an agreement for credits for purchase of arms and also assurance of aid in getting the arms into China.

Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, China's suave delegate to the League of Nations council, was said to have obtained the agreements in behind the scenes negotiations.

Details were not announced to the council and arrangements concerning safe delivery of the arms in China—for use in the war against Japan—were said to be secret.

Dr. Koo was understood to have rejected earlier offers of credits and insisted on receiving also pledges that the powers would see that the munitions purchased reached Chinese territory safely through British or French ports.

Committee Named

The council named a committee of five—delegates of Britain, France, China, Soviet Russia and Rumania—to draft a resolution reaffirming previous league declarations on China's war with Japan and also a new statement of sympathy for China to be acted on later by the full council.

British Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax, after yesterday's meeting of the League of Nations council, thanked Dr. Wellington Koo for his unexpectedly mild speech against the Anglo-French demand for freedom to recognize Italy's conquest of Ethiopia.

Chinese sources said Wellington Koo had replied:

"And Hong Kong?"

The "realistic" weapons China was using were threats to demand league sanctions against Japan and warnings that China might join Spain and other dissatisfied nations in demanding an urgent meeting of the league assembly.

Might Cause Confusion

While France and Britain knew that China would get little by either move there was fear Wellington Koo might carry out his threats to lead league powers into a maze of complicated procedure.

Ethiopia's exiled Emperor Haile Selassie, in his dramatic personal appearance yesterday in the council chamber, demanded that the question of recognizing Italy's conquest of his African empire be placed before the league assembly, but his efforts proved futile.

The question was disposed of without a vote when president of the council, Wilhelm Munster of Latvia, declared:

"The great majority of members feel, despite regrets, it is for the individual members to decide as they choose."

Julio Alvarez del Vayo, Spanish government delegate, who upset Anglo-French plans by refusing to let the Spanish question be pushed through at Wednesday's session, put debate on Italian and German intervention on today's agenda.

2 Killed When Train
Strikes Automobile

Madison—(7)—Harry Bonnes, 20, died in a hospital today, the victim of a train-car collision last night in which a companion, Louis Peters, 22, was killed instantly.

Bonnes' home was in Columbus. Peters was employed on a farm near here. His home was at Mauston. The two were riding in Bonnes' car when it was struck by a Milwaukee road passenger train at an east side crossing about 9:55 p. m.

Witnesses told Coroner Edward Fischer the young men apparently did not hear the approaching train. The car was dragged 500 feet. The deaths increased Dane county traffic fatalities to 11 this year.

Jap Airplanes In Attacks on Central Front

RAILROAD IS GOAL

Issue Warning to Foreigners in Suchow
District

Shanghai—(7)—Japanese warplanes loosed many tons of explosives today on the central China front in an effort to speed the advance of a dozen Japanese columns boring steadily toward the vital Lunghai railway from the north and south.

Harest hit by the bombardments was Suichow, 45 miles south of Suowan, on the Tientsin-Pukow railway, where the Japanese made three smashing raids.

Farther to the west Japanese warplanes leveled the Chinese defenses at Yungcheng, enabling Japanese troops to capture the city and placing them in a position to advance on Tangshan, Lunghai railway station 30 miles to the north.

On the north, the deepest-penetrating Japanese column was only three miles from the Lunghai, threatening to sever it at Sinchen, 65 miles east of Suowan.

Indicative of the Japanese confidence that the fighting soon will be carried direct to the Suchow area was a warning to foreigners in that sector.

Masayuki Tani, Japanese envoy to China, sent a letter to all foreign ambassadors and ministers urging that all foreign nationals be evacuated immediately from zones along the Lunghai, Tientsin-Pukow and Peiping-Hankow railways.

(A Hankow dispatch said two American Presbyterian houses of worship were damaged in Japanese raids on Suchow Wednesday and Thursday despite the fact that large American flags were painted on the buildings.

Officials of the missions reported the incidents to the American embassy.

Hospital Filled

(Another dispatch from Kaifeng, Lunghai railway station, said the Anglo-American China Inland Mission hospital was crowded with wounded after intensive Japanese air raids Thursday. The Kaifeng railroad station was destroyed.)

Scattered fighting was reported continuing on Amoy island, off the South China coast, where Japanese marines were mopping up isolated Chinese units.

Scenes of "indescribable confusion" were reported from nearby Julangsu island, with tens of thousands of refugees from Amoy everywhere blocking the streets.

Public buildings, schools and churches were filled with destitute families and wounded soldiers.

Continue Search
For Missing Girl

Volunteers Pushing Deeper Into Pennsylvania
Mountain Area

Bradford, Pa.—(7)—Hope of success ebbing fast, weary volunteers set out in another frosty dawn today to push the search for little Marjorie West still deeper into the wild, heavily forested mountains of northern Pennsylvania.

Mayor Hugh J. Ryan, who on Wednesday night broadcast an appeal for able-bodied volunteers to join the hunt for the blue-eyed 4-year-old daughter of an oil field worker, said the more than 3,000 men responded to the call yesterday.

Ryan said that yesterday's widespread search in this district of oil fields and bear hunting country was to be the final drive, but leaders conferred last night and decided to push on today.

Sitting in council with the leaders was the father, Shirley M. West, near collapse from sleepless days and nights in the woods. Marjorie wandered away from a family outing Sunday to pick flowers on a mountainside.

The searchers were rebuffed by the absence of a single tangible clue to the absence of the infant-haired child, whose distraught mother has expressed fear the girl was kidnapped.

Senate Group Backs Hull on Embargo Issue

Foreign Relations Committee Shelves Nye Resolution

MAY REVISE LAW

Vote Is 17 to 1 After Secretary Voices Opposition

Washington—(7)—The senate foreign relations committee responded promptly to Secretary Hull's expressed opposition today by shelving on a 17 to 1 vote the Nye resolution to lift the embargo on arms shipments to Spain.

Hull wrote the committee that "any proposal which contemplates a reversal of our policy of strict non-interference... would offer a real possibility of complications."

Chairman Pittman (D-Ne.) of the foreign relations committee said the committee's action meant action on the Nye resolution had been "postponed indefinitely." This usually is tantamount to killing a resolution.

It was not immediately disclosed which member of the foreign relations group had voted against delaying action.

Pittman said he thought it was a "fair assumption" that the language of Secretary Hull's communication indicated that the state department is considering possible later revision of the neutrality act.

Await Nye Statement

Pittman said he had arranged to permit Senator Nye (R-N. D.), who now is out of the city, to appear before the committee next week to make any statement he wishes on behalf of the resolution.

The Nevada senator, asserted, however, it was highly unlikely that the committee would reconsider its action.

"In view of the continued danger of international conflict arising from the circumstances of the struggle," Hull said, "any proposal which contemplates a reversal of our policy of strict non-interference which we have thus far so scrupulously followed, and under the operation of which we have kept out of involvements, would offer a real possibility of complications."

Hull emphasized that any changes that might be made in the neutrality law should be based on further efforts to keep this country out of what he termed "a dangerous European situation."

"Our first solicitude should be peace and the welfare of this country," he said in the communication, addressed to Chairman Pittman, "and the real test of the advisability of making any changes in the statutes now in effect would be whether such changes would further tend to keep us from becoming involved directly or indirectly in a dangerous European situation."

Critics and Supporters of Washington—(7)—Critics and supporters of the Tennessee Valley authority joined today in objecting to delays in beginning a congressional investigation of the agency.

Senator King (D-Utah), a TVA critic, said he saw "no justification for the postponements" that have marked efforts to inquire into the charges and counter-charges made by the TVA directors.

While he declined to comment on the progress of the senate-house committee, Senator Norris (D-Ne.), "father of the TVA," indicated he was irked by the fact that hearings have not started.

"If congress had agreed to my original resolution," Norris said, "the investigation would have been all over by now."

Norris first asked a federal trade commission inquiry into charges made by Dr. A. E. Morgan, later ousted as TVA chairman by President Roosevelt. When opposition developed from Senators King and Bridges (R-N. H.), Norris acquiesced in the congressional inquiry.

The joint committee, appointed more than a month ago, will decide next Wednesday whether to call Dr. Morgan and the two other directors as its opening witnesses.

Senator Donahoe (D-Ohio), committee chairman, opposed this procedure suggested by Representative Mead (D-N. Y.). Donahoe suggested the committee meet at Knoxville, Tenn., to survey the TVA properties shortly after adjournment of congress.

Minton Suggests Study
Of Newspapers in U. S.

Washington—(7)—Chairman Minton (D-Ind.) spoke today of the possibility of having a senate lobby committee investigator make an "objective study" of newspapers to ascertain whether they are publishing propaganda.

Minton told reporters that while no plans for such a study had been made, one would be "very helpful" in promoting publication of "unbiased news accounts."

He said the study could be conducted by a qualified newspaper man. This employee, he said, could take as example papers both favoring and opposing the administration and could check stories with the news sources.

Public Service Group Studying Flood Problem

Considers Feasibility of Control District for Six Counties

Madison—(7)—The public service commission announced today it would consider the feasibility of a vast central Wisconsin flood control district affecting Portage, Wood, Marathon, Juneau, Columbia and Adams counties.

The commission decided to study the potential public benefits of the project after officials of the town of Eau Claire, Portage county, had proposed construction of a dam in the Little Eau Pleine river which would form a 42 acre reservoir.

A hearing will be held in Wisconsin Rapids May 31.

The town officials declared that flood waters from the Wisconsin river and its tributaries had destroyed considerable property in an area extending from Mosinee to Portage and that the old Dancy drainage district has developed into an "evil smelling bog" which is a fire menace.

First Under Law They said the proposed dam would control flood waters and be of material benefit to public health and property. The reservoir to be created would hold enough water to cover 450,000 acres to a depth of one foot.

Although the law providing for flood control districts has been on the statute books since 1931 this is the first time the commission has invoked its powers under the act. The sole purpose of the hearing at Wisconsin Rapids is to determine whether the project will benefit the public. If the commission makes a favorable finding it will hold further hearings on the costs and advantages—a procedure which probably would extend over many weeks because of the large area involved.

Assessments Provided The commission said if it eventually determines the project will offer advantages greater than the estimated cost it will order construction to proceed and levy assessments against benefitting land, public corporations and utility companies.

Eau Claire town officials said communities which would be aided by the project are: Green Valley, Bergen, Hull and Knowlton towns, Marathon county; Eau Pleine, Carson, Dewey and Plover towns and the city of Stevens Point, Portage county; Grand Rapids, Milladore and Auburnville towns, Biron and Port Edwards villages, and the cities of Wisconsin Rapids and Nekeosha, Wood county; city of Portage, Columbia county; and farm lands near the Wisconsin river in Adams and Juneau counties.

Waters of the Little Eau Pleine river flow into the Big Eau Pleine and then into the Wisconsin river. Sponsors of the proposed district said that by impounding the waters of the Little Eau Pleine flood control over a large area would be provided.

Urges Care for 'Automobile Ear'

Osteopath Suggests Means Of Eliminating Drafts

Milwaukee—(7)—Dr. J. A. Logan, Milwaukee osteopath, urged today that something be done about automobile ear—a partial deafness of the left ear resulting from driving with the window open.

"Wind and cold, striking the ear, are conducive to catarrhal conditions in the middle ear, which impair hearing," Dr. Logan said in an address before the fortieth annual convention of the Wisconsin Osteopathic association.

"Once the ear has become infected, constant treatment is demanded unless the cause is removed." Dr. Logan recommended the general adoption of manual signals, attached to the car, that may be operated from within the machine. This would make it unnecessary for motorists, driving in traffic where instantaneous signals must be given, to keep the left front window rolled down.

Another alternative suggested by Dr. Logan was the development of a small auxiliary window, just large enough for the driver's hand and arm, which could be opened without creating a draft. Dr. C. B. Blakeless of Indianapolis, told the convention only tuberculosis causes more deaths among women of child bearing age than pregnancy and childbirth. He blamed the lack of prenatal care, or its inadequacy, for the majority of maternal deaths.

Youth Injured in Bike-Auto Crash

James Verboomen, 11, Suffers Possible Skull Fracture

James, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Verboomen, route 2, Kaukauna, suffered a possible skull fracture and lacerations of the scalp when he was involved in an accident with a car driven by Edward Menting, Combined Locks, at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon on Highway 41 five miles north of Kaukauna.

The youth was riding a bicycle and going north, and Menting was traveling in the same direction, County Motorcycle Officer William Glasheen, who investigated, was told. The youth was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital where an x-ray was to be taken to determine the extent of his injuries.

A taxi driven by Joseph Marshall, 1209 N. Division street, and a parked car owned by John Linskens, 719 Desnoyer street, Kaukauna, were damaged in an accident on N. Superior street at 8 o'clock last night. Marshall was going north when his machine struck the Linskens car and pushed it about 40 feet, police were told.

Utah Senator to Ask Relief Quiz administration of relief back to the states. More than 50 other amendments also were defeated.

Representative Fish (R-N. Y.) remarked that a "well-oiled steamroller" was in operation.

Only twice were administration forces upset. They failed to kill an amendment to make farmers who are in need of work and not on relief rosters eligible for employment on rural WPA projects. They were unable to keep rural-minded legislators from adding $400,000,000 to the $2,000,000,000 proposed by the appropriations committee for rural electrification.

Republicans Lose Fight Republicans fought the bill with every argument and parliamentary device they could muster. They said it would lead to national disaster, that it was senseless to try to bring about recovery by more spending and by throwing the budget farther out of balance, and that business confidence could be restored by scrapping administration policies.

Democrats cited estimates that the bill would supply jobs for about 4,100,000 persons, and said "pump-priming" was necessary to aid lagging business. They howled down Fish's attempt to deprive the president of the right to approve WPA projects.

They tossed aside a proposal by Representative Taber (R-N. Y.) to delete the entire PWA appropriation, another by Representative Bacon (R-N. Y.) to forbid use of PWA money for projects competing with private enterprise, and a third by Representative Barton (R-N. Y.) to make it a penitentiary offense to use relief money to influence elections.

Amendments Rejected For the most part, individual Democrats had no success with amendments.

Members ignored the appeal of Representative Osmund (D-N. C.) that as a matter of "good morals and legislative decency" they strike out a section to let states and cities, already up to their legs in debt, limit, assume the obligations of more PWA projects.

This is how the house voted on the administration's $3,000,000,000 relief and public works bill: Democrats, 291 for, 11 against; Progressives, 8 to 0; Farmer-Laborites, 5 to 0; totals 329 for, and 70 against. Paired for and against, 10; not voting, 19; vacancies 7.

Pegler's Trying to Keep Lobby Committee Honest

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—Senator Green, of Rhode Island, says a magazine called Rural Progress, to which Glenn Frank contributes editorials, is published only to spread propaganda against the New Deal. This magazine is under investigation by the senate lobby committee, of which he is a member. Senator Green obviously considers that the dissemination of propaganda against the New Deal is a wicked business.

There are others, however, who regard this as a patriotic work.

The word "propaganda" came to have a nasty meaning with us during the World war, when the allies and the Germans were pulling and hauling at us to enlist our sympathies. Actually, however, propaganda is not necessarily wrong. I suppose I might be regarded as a propagandist for the extension of the federal income tax to the salaries of some three million and odd employees of the state, county and municipal governments. If so I am acting well within my rights, and I am ready to defend the justice and wisdom of my proposition.

I suppose I might be regarded as a propagandist against the conduct of the senate lobby committee, too. If so I am still within my rights, and again I am able to defend the justice and wisdom of my proposition. I contend that this committee is much more dishonest and subversive of good government in its failure thus far to investigate or even acknowledge the existence of administration lobbying than any single magazine could be.

Attaching propaganda, even though that propaganda were a little bit dishonest. Incidentally, this doesn't seem to be much of a magazine. I never heard of it before. Did you?

I contend that a committee of the senate which uses the senate's authority to investigate any matter is bound to investigate both sides and to treat them alike. If it goes after one side in the manner of a county prosecutor trying to earn the honored nickname of Ropes by sending frightened and terrified prisoners to the gallows for murders which they may not have done, then it should call up lobbyists from the other side and tear into them, with equal cynicism.

It Must Hit Both Sides Or Cheaper the Senate This committee hasn't done that, and shows no intention of doing anything of the kind, so it is my opinion that the committee is abusing its authority, shirking a duty and doing more harm to the country than this little magazine did, even if it should be granted that everything alleged or intimated against the magazine is true. If the committee doesn't go after the lobbyists who lobbied for the reorganization bill it will cheapen the senate and give the people to believe that they have lost the right to oppose the dominant political party's measures, except at considerable risk.

I don't know by what process it could be done, but I seriously propose that this lobby committee be investigated and that the members be placed on the stand and questioned regarding conversations which they may have had in deciding whom to investigate and whom to ignore. It seems impossible that they could have ignored the lobbyists who worked in favor of the bill just by instinct without saying, "We will quietly pass up so-and-so," or otherwise expressing an understanding to this effect.

If It's Wrong One Way It's Wrong Another And if propaganda against the New Deal is, of itself, investigable (hold or Newt?), then propaganda for the New Deal is equally investigable. And if it is wrong to spend $300,000,000 in three years running a little magazine in opposition to the administration then it is X times as wrong for the administration to employ great numbers of press agents, mainly ex-newspaper men with political connections, at public expense to make propaganda for the new deal.

When it comes to propaganda this administration is in a class by itself, an analysis of that propaganda would show the same proportion of untruth or half-truth that could be found in the anti-New Deal material. In fact, this lobby committee itself is doing little else than making propaganda for the New Deal.

I don't suppose it ever can be compelled to happen, but I still like to think of a scene in which members of the United States senate are placed on the stand forced to tell under oath who lobbied them in favor of the reorganization bill, naming names and reporting in detail what promises and threats, if any, were employed in an attempt to force them to vote for the bill.

This piece is propaganda for the pious purpose of keeping the lobby committee honest.

Girl Kills Fox After Animal Attacks Her

Wilton, Wis.—(7)—Audrey Creviston, 12, nursed a swollen arm today but a grey fox which bit her as she walked from school last night was dead. Audrey, bitten when she attempted to brush the animal from her path, grabbed it by the neck and struggled with it before picking up a rock to kill it with a blow on the head. Dr. Carl Foley sent the head to Madison today for rabies tests and gave the girl a serum treatment. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Creviston.

Villa Louis to be Opened for Season At Prairie du Chien

Prairie du Chien—(7)—Mrs. Nelson G. Kraschel, wife of the governor of Iowa, Mrs. Clarence A. Dykstra, Madison, wife of the president of the University of Wisconsin, and 25 other socially prominent women from Wisconsin, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota and Illinois will gather here Sunday, May 15, as guest hostesses at the annual opening of the Villa Louis.

The historic villa was built in 1843 by Colonel Hercules L. Dousman, who made a million dollar fortune in the fur trade, and it became a center of the social whirl on the upper Mississippi frontier. Celebrities from New York to Wyoming gathered in its halls in New Orleans.

Today, with nearly all of the original furnishings brought back and restored the village has become one of the most authentically reconstructed homes of its kind in the country.

Among Wisconsin women attending will be Mrs. Helen K. Stuart Neenah.

Babson Suggests Softening of Tax On Capital Gains

Backs Up President's Plan Of Taxing New Government Bonds

BY ROGER BABSON
Babson Park, Mass. — Cutting out tax-exemption on new public bonds and softening the capital gains tax would be the biggest immediate help which congress could give the country now. It would aid in bringing an end to the strike of capital which started last August. Taxing new government bonds and easing the levy on capital gains should force billions of dollars into new enterprises. These two steps are more important to recovery than the appropriation of the new $5,000,000 spending program.

Basically, taxes should be limited to raising money to pay public expenses. The soundest way to do this is to abandon all present federal levies except estate taxes and a broad income tax and to rely thereon. Present revenue measures are like a Chinese puzzle to figure out. They are unwise and restrictive. The framers of the new tax statutes had no idea what their ultimate effect would be. They did not realize, for instance, that a higher levy on personal holding companies, coupled with John L. Lewis' activities, would be largely responsible for throwing 4,000,000 people out of work between last August and this May.

What Higher Tax Did
Personal holding companies formerly held a tax advantage for wealthy individuals. Dividends and interest from investments could accumulate in these holding company treasuries by paying a flat corporation income tax of around 15 per cent. But if the dividends were paid direct they had to be put through the owner's personal tax return at rates up to as high as 75 per cent. For several years treasury experts had tried to stop this "leak" but up until 1937 it was still cheaper to use the holding company device. Finally, last August, a bill was pushed through congress which hiked the tax rate on these companies to 80 or 90 per cent. Immediately their owners began to sell their stockholdings and replace them with tax-free government bonds.

Under the three year rule of the Securities Exchange commission the stock market had become very "thin." Prices often changed faster in a day than they fluctuated in a week ten years before. Hence, the market was unable to absorb these "big blocks" of securities which the holding companies wanted to get rid of. Prices naturally began to sink. Then high margins brought on selling from other sources. One forced sale would uncover another "stop-loss" order. Within a month what began as an orderly retreat had turned into a rout. For the first time in my experience, a stock market crash brought on a business decline rather than a business decline bringing on a stock market crash!

BOYS 'TRIP LIGHT FANTASTIC' IN GIRLS' CLOTHING

One of the highlights of the annual senior 'vodvil' given at Appleton High school Wednesday afternoon was an act entitled, "Haresfoot," presented by senior boys. Here are the boys right in the middle of the dance which had classmates rolling in the aisles. One of the cast not shown in the picture, Clarence Zelic, got an added round of applause when he entered from the rear in true burlesque style. The boys in the picture are, left to right: Dexter Wolfe, Douglas White, Keith Hallenbeck, Richard Arens, James Gosse, James VanAbe, Warren Choudoir, Donald Wulgart and Robert Schroeder. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Reforming By Taxes
The drafters of last August's increase in personal holding company taxes little dreamed that it would touch off one of the sharpest recessions in history. The experience is a vivid illustration of the danger of tampering with our economic machinery. It shows the dynamite in using the tax power as a reform club. Business is like a watch. You cannot take off one wheel to repair it and expect the other wheels to keep good time. Our crazy-quilt tax system is the biggest problem we face today. Unemployment, crops, labor strife, spending, and all our other worries are "junior" to it.

We are now wallowing in a stupid recession. Yet ours is the greatest and richest nation in the world. Gigantic mineral and farm wealth, unlimited factory and machine equipment, and unprecedented credit reservoirs are ours. What has gone wrong? My answer is that those who control the wealth and industry of the nation have joined labor and consumers in a strike! These capitalists refuse to risk their money (and every business deal is a risk) unless they can make, and retain, a fair profit. They feel that the administration has "stacked the deck" so they have gone on a "sit-down" of their own!

End The Strike
Add this capital strike to renewed labor troubles, plus the consumer "sit-down," and we have business stagnation. The new Roosevelt spending program has been given a cold and clammy reception. In 1932 and '33 we needed to inflate the business balloon and get it off the ground. But we do not need inflating or priming today. What we need now is a little assurance that the "heads-I-win, tails-you-lose" game is over. Banks do not need bolstering; utilities do not need new money; labor does not need higher wages; but capital does need to be put to work!

A lower capital gains levy and the taxing of new public bonds could change the entire picture. They could drive hoarded and "dead" money into new enterprises and new industries. They could end the present business "stand-still." Eliminating tax-exemption on new bonds, however, means that public borrowing would cost the taxpayer more money through higher interest rates. Hence, the passage of a modified tax on capital gains must be a running-mate of any measure eliminating tax-exempt bonds. In other words, force capital to work, on the one hand, by ending tax exemption; encourage

State Democrats To Map Campaign At Stevens Point

60 Central Committeemen Will Discuss Candidates for Offices

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—The meeting of 60 Democratic state central committeemen at Stevens Point Saturday, May 28, will signal the start of the Democratic party's Wisconsin campaign. James Corcoran, Webster, state party chairman, said here yesterday.

The leading members of the party will map campaign plans for the year, arrange for the party's annual convention, which is scheduled for June, and will talk over candidates for state and legislative offices at the Stevens Point gathering, the first of the year, Corcoran indicated.

Only Democratic candidates in the field at the present time in the state is Senator F. Ryan Duffy of Fond du Lac, who has formally announced that he is a candidate for reelection.

Corcoran shied away from talk of party candidates for this year, but said that he expects definite word within the next week. He would not discuss the prospect of obtaining Daniel Grady, prominent Portage lawyer, to head the state ticket, although reports are rife that many influential party men would like to see him included in their slate.

Prospects "Good"
Prospects for the Democratic party in Wisconsin this year "look good" Corcoran said.

Fond du Lac, which has already been chosen to be host to the Republican state convention June 3 and 4, is the only city which has made a bid for the Democratic state meeting, he disclosed.

Corcoran said that John Slocum, the party's executive secretary and ex-officio campaign manager, will be at the Stevens Point meeting and will remain in Wisconsin to take charge of campaign plans. Slocum, who formerly headed the state capital party headquarters, has been in the employ of Senator Duffy in Washington for the last year.

Eighth district Democratic state committee members who will attend the Stevens Point session include Herman Kamm, Crandon, Bert Larkin, Two Rivers, L. F. Nelson, Kaukauna, F. M. Boyle, Marinette, Mrs. John Dunn, Green Bay, and Mrs. Albert Swoboda, Casco.

Others from the vicinity of Green Bay include Julius Rollman of Cecil and Mrs. Anton Bohr of Clintonville, representing the Seventh congressional district. The committee will choose a successor to Leo P. Fox of Chilton, late Calumet county leader, Corcoran said.

Parrot's 'Line' Over Phone Gets Him Into Radio Contest Sunday
George, garrulous parrot owned by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Smith of Appleton, talked himself into the finals of a national parrot contest during a telephone conversation this week with Kenneth D. Fry, Chicago, manager of special events for the central division of NBC.

Fry called Mrs. Smith long distance this week to make arrangements for the parrot's appearance. She brought George to the phone and the parrot promptly announced to Fry that "we're going bye-bye."

Fry was so impressed with George's English that he canceled a proposed studio audition and admitted the parrot without further ado into the contest which will be broadcast from Chicago over the Red network of NBC at 1:30 Sunday afternoon.

George's 25 years make him the oldest of the contestants entered so far, Fry said. Parrots have been entered from cities throughout the nation.

Lions Club Directors Will Convene Tonight
The board of directors of the Appleton Lions club will meet at 7 o'clock tonight at the Conway hotel. Committee chairmen for the Northwest Territory celebration which the Lions will sponsor here July 21 will receive their instructions at the meeting.

Auto Dealers to Hold Meeting Monday Night
The Fox Valley Automobile Dealers association will meet following a 6:30 dinner Monday night at Hotel Northern. About 30 men are expected to attend.

Mexico Unable to Pay for Seized Oil Properties

Prompt Protest by America May Have Averted Trouble, Lawrence Says

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington — Seven weeks ago, the government of Mexico seized several American oil properties, their plants, their cash in bank and all their assets. International law recognizes the right to confiscate, but not without a fair payment. To date, there has been no payment and there is not likely to be any payment because Mexico has not the funds to pay for that which has been seized, unless perchance a profiteering administration at Washington wishes to compound the felony by offering money out of the treasury of the United States.

Lawrence

All over Mexico, the attitude of President Roosevelt, Secretary Hull and Undersecretary Sumner Welles has been heralded as a big-hearted approval of the confiscation policy of the Mexican government. This is not altogether justified by what has been heralded as a big-hearted there can be little doubt that the Mexicans know a sympathetic word when they hear one. President Roosevelt, instead of being horrified by a seizure of American property in a contravention of every principle of justice, made a casual comment to the press about how the oil properties should be paid for. He indicated something about "prudent investment," which is just the same as if he had sanctioned a long drawn out discussion of what was "fair value." It certainly was accepted by the Mexicans as a loophole for delay and "deferred" payments instead of cash.

Meanwhile, the government of Great Britain, which stands by her citizens and does not condone theft in any part of the world, has served notice on Mexico that the seized oil properties of British citizens must be paid for immediately. The United States would find herself in a very awkward position indeed if Great Britain withdrew formal recognition from the Mexican government and then began seizing Mexican oil tankers which attempted to carry the stolen oil from Mexico to foreign ports.

It is declared by those familiar with the Mexican situation that President Cardenas has been put in an awkward and untenable position by the labor leaders of Mexico. First, they made 600 demands upon the oil companies and through a so-called national board in Mexico City secured an order compelling the oil companies to pay wage increases amounting virtually to double the companies' earnings. And when this could not be met, President Cardenas found himself forced by labor leaders to seize the foreign-owned properties.

The trouble might have been averted if the American government had been mindful of the rights of her nationals and if prompt protest in vigorous terms had been made. Even today, the department of state appears to have dawdled along without making manifest to Mexico that American properties cannot be seized without making prompt payment for them. And it is known that Mexico's financial condition is such that her government cannot pay foreign claims.

Foreign Investments
If American oil properties can be seized with impunity in Mexico and no payment made, then American property of all kinds in foreign countries suddenly becomes insecure, and this involves many billions of dollars. Foreign trade is considered one of the essential parts of any sound recovery program in America, but there can hardly be any tendency to invest abroad if their own government refuses to protect such investments with the ordinary safeguards of international law. Likewise, it is doubtful if economic conditions in Mexico can improve as long as the business interests of the United States have the notion that the Mexican government is acting arbitrarily with respect to American property. All the hard work done by the Mexicans themselves to foster tourist trade and good relations with their northern neighbor will go for naught if the department of state and the Mexican government do not soon reach a satisfactory settlement of the oil problem, which is as unprecedented as it is dangerous to future investments abroad.

Trumped-up Excuses
All sorts of trumped-up excuses are being proclaimed by those defending the Mexican action, one to the effect that the oil industry has paid low wages, when, as a matter of fact, the data from the Mexican government's own department of labor for 1936 show that the average daily wage in the oil industry was more than double that which was being paid in other Mexican industries. Likewise, the items furnished free to workers by the oil companies, including housing, light, education, transportation, medical and hospital facilities for the family of the worker, amounted to the equivalent of about 36 per cent over and above the basic wages actually paid by the oil companies.

Attempts are being made by the radical labor leaders in Mexico to enlist the support of American labor organizations for the Communist plans being hatched in Mexico. It is regrettable that the Roosevelt administration has not seen fit to speak a vigorous word for the protection of property as against confiscation in such a public manner that the Mexicans could not possibly misunderstand.

The Mexican people are in the midst of social revolution and they should be left to work out their own problems, but recognition has always been extended or withdrawn by the Washington government on the basis of compliance with international law. While it may seem easier to seize than to re-

PARADE FOR TREES

Ford, Kas. —(AP)—Ford's city officials, all women, decided recently that the city needed a campaign of beautification.

Led by Mayor Kathleen Emrie, they paraded down Main street with spades and shovels over their shoulders.

They explained that each woman was doing her part by planting a tree.

the WORLD of STAMPS

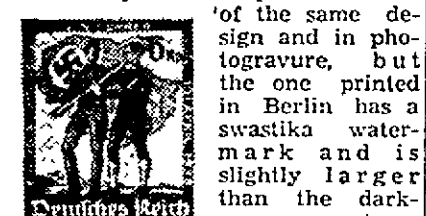

BY JAMES B. HATCHER
First Postmaster-General
From the 20-foot white marble statue of Benjamin Franklin sculptured by James Earl Fraser is to come the head for the new 1-cent stamp which the U. S. postoffice department will issue May 19 at Philadelphia. The statue, which represents the elderly Franklin seated, is to be unveiled that day in the rotunda of the Franklin Institute of Philadelphia.

Franklin was especially interested in the postal service. He served as deputy postmaster of Philadelphia and deputy postmaster-general of the American colonies under British rule, and in 1775 was unanimously elected first American postmaster-general by the Continental congress. He has been called "the father of the postal service."

The new 1-cent Martha Washington stamp, showing a profile view of a bust of the first lady, goes on sale at Washington May 5. It is to be the same size, color and shape as the Harding 1-cent.

Anschluss Adhesives
The 6-pennig anchluss stamp, hailing the Austro-German union, was really two stamps. Both are of the same design, but one printed in Berlin has a swastika watermark and is slightly larger than the darker green stamp printed at Vienna. There are also minor differences of paper, perforation and gum.

Viennese Prof. Erwin Puchinger's design shows a German and Austrian youth, arms about shoulders, striding forward and carrying a swastika flag. The frame bears

"When I hired you I wanted a man to say 'yes'—not just 'uh huh!'"

the German words for: "One People, One Reich, One Leader—10 April 1938."

These stamps, which appeared at plebiscite time, will be valid for postage through 1938.

Current German stamps became available for use in Austria April 4, it is reported.

Zog's Wedding Stamps
Albania marked the marriage of its king to a Hungarian countess April 27 by issuing a set of eight wedding stamps (and a miniature sheet) which carry the portraits of King Zog and Queen Geraldine.

Music Can Help People Survive Trying Times, Federation Head Says

URGING that schools place the same emphasis on art life for young people as they do on athletics, Mrs. Vincent H. Ober, president of the National Federation of Music Clubs, told the Wisconsin Federation of Music Clubs at its annual banquet Thursday night at the Conway hotel that music had the power to keep people level-headed in trying times.

More than 100 delegates and visitors attended the banquet. Mrs. Ober told the story of a Christmas eve during the World war, when a 24-hour armistice was declared because of the Christmas holiday. Soldiers in the allied trenches began singing "Holy Night" and then heard the strains of the same song coming from the German lines. When morning came, soldiers from both sides left their trenches to mingle in "No Man's Land" and sing the familiar Christmas songs together, and the 24-hour armistice lasted for 10 days.

The power of the right song could stop the firing for 10 days, then the power of song can keep us level-headed in these trying times," she declared.

The purpose of the federation, she said, is to make and keep America musical. An organization of amateurs performing only for the love of art, its members are not dependent upon music for livelihood, she explained.

Attention to Churches. Mrs. Ober suggested that music club members concert themselves more with the music played in their churches. Excepting such liturgical churches as the Catholic, Lutheran and Episcopal, she charged that many of the songs heard in the churches and Sunday schools today were unworthy means of praising the Maker.

Turning to other phases of music, she asked that native composers be encouraged and that there be better and more public school music instruction. The United States is far behind Mexico in the matter of school music instruction, she declared. While only one-half of the schools in the United States have music instruction, a Mexican law requires that all schools from the kindergarten up have music instruction.

Of opera Mrs. Ober said: "The national federation believes in opera for the people and by the people. It is said that English is unbecomingly and unsingable, but that is not true. Correctly spoken it is beautiful, and it is our language. At least 50 per cent of the operas should be in the English language."

School Chorus Sings. Mrs. Ober's address, as well as the short concert by the Appleton High School chorus under the direction of A. A. Glockzin which preceded it, were broadcast over the local station.

Mrs. Edwin C. Thompson, Madison, state president, was toastmaster.

At a luncheon yesterday noon at the hotel Mrs. J. E. Routh, Milwaukee, state chairman of education and president of the Fourth and Fifth districts, conducted a panel discussion on "What the Community Expects of Us." Speakers were Mrs. Ober, who told of the object and background that brought the National Federation of Music Clubs into being, what it had accomplished and what it intended to accomplish; Harold Cooke, director of the Gleason of Stout Institute, Menomonie, who told what the federation could do for the youth of America; and Mrs. C. W. Atherton, Racine, who discussed music in the rural schools. Mrs. Edwin C. Thompson summed up the discussion in conclusion.

Clinics are Conducted at Conservatory

DELEGATES to the convention of the Wisconsin Federation of Music Clubs attended two clinics conducted Thursday afternoon at Peabody hall by instructors at the Lawrence Conservatory of Music. Mrs. Gertrude Miller Claver, instructor in piano at the conservatory, conducted a pre-school and intermediate piano clinic, and Marshall Hulbert, instructor in voice, led discussion on the adult choir.

Mrs. Claver demonstrated her method of teaching and emphasized the different types of technique and the difference between the student's approach and the artist's approach. She also discussed sightreading, classwork and the problems involved in teaching the very young child.

As an illustration of children's work Mrs. Claver had 10 of her students play for the delegates who attended her clinic. Their program follows: Harvest Moon Robyn Maureen Donahue Three Little Chickens Grant Schaefer Greta Johnson

Mother-Daughter Banquets Are Held at Two Churches

ANNUAL mother and daughter banquets were given last night at two churches, St. John Evangelical and Reformed and St. Mary Catholic. About 150 mothers and daughters heard the Rev. Father Gilbert, O. M. Cap., director of the Monte Alverno Retreat House, speak on "The Dignity of Womanhood" at Columbia hall, where the St. Mary banquet was given, and about 120 attended the banquet at St. John's, where Miss Louise Kippenhan spoke on "The Bible Mothers."

WOMAN'S CLUB CLOSES SEASON AT LUNCHEON

Mrs. L. M. Schindler, center, gave her farewell talk as president of Appleton Woman's club at the closing luncheon of the club yesterday at Heartstone tea room. She was presented with a hammered silver set from her board of directors. Succeeding Mrs. Schindler as president of the club for the coming year is Mrs. F. J. Leonard, right, who was treasurer this year, and at the left is Mrs. Jay Wallens who will serve another term as secretary next year. Dr. M. S. Benjamin, pastor of Bethany Presbyterian church of Milwaukee, was guest speaker at the luncheon. (Post-Crescent Photo)

English Language Should Be Simplified, Club Told

THE hope that English will become the universal language but that first it will be simplified was expressed by Dr. M. S. Benjamin, pastor of Bethany Presbyterian church, Milwaukee, formerly of Shawano, in an address entitled "Your English," at the annual luncheon of Appleton Woman's club Thursday afternoon at Heartstone tea room.

Dr. Benjamin, a native of Persia, appeared in Persian costume which he explained, and told of his own difficulties in learning the English language when he first came to the United States. He told his audience that English is spoken more generally throughout the world than any other language, and told of a trip to Europe during which he saw the Passion play at Oberammergau where almost everyone he stopped to speak to could understand English.

English is the hardest, most irregular language in the world, Dr. Benjamin said, and has more exceptions to rules than any other. It is a composite language, being made up of all the other languages, some words being taken even from the Persian.

As examples of some of the exceptions to rules of spelling and pronunciation, the speaker mentioned a number of words which are spelled nearly the same but pronounced differently such as "few" and "sew," "horse" and "worse," "bough" and "cough," "comb," "tomb" and "bomb," "food," "good" and "blood." He also gave words which are spelled and pronounced the same but have different meanings as "fast," and told some amusing anecdotes about his own troublesome experiences with the American usage of such words as "up" and "down," "in" and "out," and "all in" and "played out."

In closing his talk, Dr. Benjamin presented three words which he said every organization and individual ought to have as mottos, namely, vision, action and victory. Vision he described as the plans or specifications of one's life, action as the carrying out of those plans and victory as the harvesting.

Receives Gift
Mrs. L. M. Schindler, outgoing president of the club was presented with a 3-piece hammered silver set consisting of two trays and a bowl, given by her board of directors. Mrs. John Engel, Jr., who made the presentation, gave a brief resume of the past presidents of the club from its organization in 1921 and hung "portraits" in the form of baby pictures representing the presidents including Mrs. Schindler.

Mrs. Schindler gave her annual address, expressing her sincere thanks to her board and the office secretary, Mrs. Ellen Foote, for their cooperation during her term and extending her best wishes to Mrs. F. J. Leonard, president-elect, for the coming year.

Officers Report
Mrs. Leonard gave a brief response and the various officers and department chairmen gave their annual reports as follows: President, Mrs. L. M. Concerts are Highlights of Convention

DELEGATES and visitors here for the music convention and townspeople were treated to music by some of the best choruses in the state at two concerts yesterday at Lawrence Memorial chapel.

In the afternoon the Schubert club of Kenosha, under the direction of Maurice G. Ivins, the Glee-men of the Stout Institute, Menomonie, directed by Harold Cooke, and the Woman's club chorus of Appleton, directed by Miss Helen Mueller, presented a varied program that included folk songs, oratorios and classics. Anna Daze Ivins accompanied the Schubert club; Sylvia Michaels, the Glee-men; and Helen Richter, the Woman's club chorus.

The excellent Sheboygan A Cappella choir, directed by G. F. Schlei, opened the evening program with a program that featured the beautiful church music of Bach and Christiansen. Outstanding numbers in their group were "All Through the Night," by Lukin, and "Beautiful Savior," arranged by Christiansen.

Second part of last night's program was presented by the Menasha Economics club chorus, directed by Mrs. L. E. Lindquist and accompanied by Mrs. E. H. Schultz. Although their chorus is a small one, their rendition of "Peter Pan," a cycle of songs by Mrs. H. H. Beach, was well done.

Probably the most popular number in the group of selections sung by the Central State Men's Glee club, Stevens Point, directed by Norman Knutzen, was the "Cossack Love Song," by Kountz. The Lawrence college a cappella choir, under the direction of Dean Carl J. Waterman closed the program with a group of songs that included two Noble Cain selections and ended with the chorale and finale from Wagner's "Mastersingers of Nuremberg."

Canning Workers Must Have Social Security Cards, Myers States

Employees of canning factories in the district served by the Green Bay social security office should obtain social security account numbers when starting work. L. J. Myers, manager of the Green Bay office, has announced.

The office covers the counties of Brown, Door, Kewaunee, Marinette, Oconto, Outagamie, Shawano, and Waupaca. "While this work is seasonal, every person who is thus employed should have a social security account number," Myers said.

Employers are required to deduct one per cent from the wages of workers in industries of this type. A like sum is added by the employer who also must report the name and social security number of each worker at the time contributions are paid.

Canning workers may obtain applications for account numbers from postmasters, operators of canneries, or the Green Bay office.

130 Denominations are Represented in Plan for World Church Council

Utrecht, the Netherlands—(AP)—A historic church document aimed at the most far-reaching union of Christian churches since the reformation emerged today from a world conference of churchmen representing 130 protestant denominations.

The document is the draft of a constitution, approved unanimously by 75 delegates from 20 nations including the United States, for the first world council of churches in history.

It will be submitted at once to all participating churches by the archbishop of York, who presided at the five-day conference which adjourns today.

An accompanying letter will ask the churches to unite in the organization for "the fellowship of all churches which accept our Lord Jesus Christ as God and Saviour" and send delegates to the proposed council meeting.

Delegates here represented directly about 32 denominations but they spoke also as the elected representatives of 130 Protestant bodies.

A council meeting every five years and an annual meeting of a central committee would be open to all Christian churches.

The Roman Catholic church, however, has taken no steps to participate in the movement.

Assembly Of 450 The council assembly would consist of 450 members. There would be 90 delegates to the central committee, including 18 from the United States and Canada, of whom 5 would be lay delegates.

Because of his long work toward formation of the council, the archbishop of York was considered almost certain to be elected its first president. He became an originator of the movement during a visit to the United States four years ago.

The constitution prescribed these functions for the council: "1. To carry on the work of the two world-wide movements for faith and order and for life and work" (these two organizations the Oxford Conference on Life and Work and the Edinburgh Conference of Faith and Order, arranged for call of the conference.)

"2. To facilitate common action by churches; "3. To promote cooperation and study; "4. To promote the growth of ecumenical world-wide consciousness in members of all churches; "5. To establish relations with denominational federations of world-wide scope and with other ecumenical movements; "6. To call world conferences on specific subjects as the occasion may require, such conferences being empowered to publish their own findings."

The draft of the constitution is the final form upon which churches will be asked to enter into the world council. Churches may, however, propose any amendments for action at the first or subsequent council meetings, a two-thirds majority being required for adoption.

Clintonville at Red River.

RAINED out of practically all games last Sunday, baseball teams in this section of the state will stage their second series of openers Sunday afternoon. Weather during the last few days hasn't been conducive to practices but the squads will stagger through their contests for, after all, the race must begin some time.

In the Northern State league, Green Bay, New London, Kimberly and Clintonville will be the home clubs. Seymour will be at the Bay. Kaukauna goes to New London, the Papermakers will entertain Manitowoc and Two Rivers will take the long hop to Clintonville. New London and Manitowoc were the only clubs to play last week, the Ships winning, 11 to 0.

In the Fox River Valley league it will be Little Chute at Kaukauna, Grand Chute at Appleton, Menasha at Oshkosh and Green Bay at Neenah. Oshkosh at Green Bay with the latter the winner was the Valley league's only contest last week.

Chuters at Kaukauna
Little Chute at Kaukauna will send the two newest members of the circuit against each other at Kaukauna. There's plenty of rivalry between the teams and the Chuter community band will make the trip to the Electric City. The Kaukauna band will be on hand to foot for the home team.

Monday—Moose versus Y.M.C.A. (Postponed to Friday).
Wednesday—Forsters 7, Eagles 6.
Thursday—Company D 3, Knights of Columbus 2.

A long drive by Strebel in the last of the ninth with Mattson on second base gave Company D softball team a 3 to 2 victory over the Knights of Columbus in their first start in the Fraternal league last night. Strebel was credited with a homer but the scoring records fail to show that he completed the bases, Mattson's run being the only one credited.

The Knights scored one in the second but the Guards got two to take the lead in the fourth. In the sixth the Knights scored again to even matters and in the ninth the Guards copped.

Strebel and Timmers, the latter of the K. C., were credited with homers. Brewer of the Guards got a triple and Bleier of the Knights and DeLong of the Guards got doubles.

Marv Green worked for the Guards and fanned nine and was steady in the pinches. Eddie Hildebrandt tolled for the Knights and fanned five. The highlight of the game was Vic Mattson's sensational running catch which robbed Bleier of a home run.

Two sophomore members of the Lawrence track squad who have been doing well this season and who are expected to figure heavily in Lawrence's bid for the Midwest track crown next week are Wellington Cape, left, and Ken Buesing, both of Appleton. They were snapped the other evening while jogging around the track trying to keep warm in the chill northwest wind. Both compete in the quarter mile while Buesing does the sprints and Cape the half mile if necessary. (Post-Crescent Photo)

DiMaggio Not on Best of Terms With Yankee Squad

NEW YORK—A little quiet investigation reveals that there is a certain amount of truth to the report that Joe DiMaggio is getting the chill from some of his Yankee teammates because of his prolonged holdout this spring, but it doesn't seem to be anything to worry about.

It was to be expected that some of Giuseppe's companions would resent his playing hookey from the training siege, and there is no doubt that they have let him know about it in a quiet way. Yet there seems to be no danger of any personal fireworks that could affect the team's pennant chances.

In fact, says an informant from the Yankee council, the feeling against the youthful slugger is nothing to what it was a fortnight ago, and he predicted that if Giuseppe keeps on powdering the ball everything will be hunky-dory again very shortly.

Expect Dissension
Nobody ever has uncovered a big league ball club where there wasn't a little dissension. It isn't necessary for the shortstop to speak to the second-baseman socially to make them a highly effective combination. The Yankees always have been a big, high-salaried set of individuals who thrived on smacking the ball rather than on college spirit.

It is rather obvious that Joe has been put through a course of sprouts. During pre-game practice he mostly sits silently in front of the dug-out, only now and then chatting shortly with a teammate. He doesn't talk much with the writers because he feels they didn't back him up in his salary argument with Colonel Jake Ruppert, who, incidentally, has been sick abed ever since the day Joe finally signed.

Some already are wondering what will happen a few years from now, if DiMaggio should develop into a super-star. The Yankee management is committed to a salary limit of $50,000 in future. Joe has his sights set a lot higher than that, and he already has proved that he can be stubborn. He's "taking it" the moment, and he's "taking it" but something says he will be back.

Wager Par Score Will Win Flashy Metro Open Meet

National Champion Feels
283 Should be Good
Enough for Title

NEW YORK—(AP)—Though par is cut to ribbons in these days of fast fields and rich purses, five would get you ten today that no man in the crack Metropolitan open golf championship field will have bettered 280 when the tournament ends with tomorrow's closing 36-hole drive.

The odds-layers will make you that offer despite the fact that the Fresh Meadow country club course, with its par of 70, is not unusually long, and the further fact that this year's field, including such stars as United States open champion Ralph Guldahl, ace money-winner Harry Cooper, sluggers Jimmy Thomson, Sam Snead and Lawson Little, and putting wizards Horton Smith and Paul Runyon, is one of the best in the tourney's history.

283 May Win
Guldahl, who started today's second round in a three-way tie for second place with Smith and defending champion Jimmy Hines, is in full accord with that sentiment. Although he shot a 70, one stroke behind leader Willie Klein, in yesterday's first round, the national champion feels 283 should be plenty good enough to win.

"These narrow fairways put a terrific strain on you," said Ralph. Every time you step to the tee, there's a space about the size of a dime you have to aim for or get in trouble—and there's not a single hole where you can ease up."

As an added attraction for the gallery, a driving contest was scheduled for this afternoon, involving three of the world's longest hitters—Snead, who accounted for his opening 74 by saying disgustedly that he'd "never played such a terrible round," Little, who got off to one of the best starts he's made in a long time with a 71 and Thomson, whose tee shots were booming but spraying more than usual.

Lawrence Teams To Invade Beloit

Captain Sam Leete of Tracksters Will Show
In High Jump

Practically the entire Lawrence college track and field squad, the golf squad and the tennis team will invade Beloit college campus tomorrow for their final dual meet of the season. On May 21 the teams will show in the Midwest conference meet here and the week following in the state college meet at Waukesha.

Coach Art Denney of the track squad is taking all his men in the expectation that second and third place winners will determine the outcome. Beloit has a large squad and is grooming its also-rans in the hopes of breaking Lawrence's string of dual victories.

Denney announced today that Sam Leete, captain of the squad, will compete in the high jump for the first time this season. However, he'll use the California roll instead of his usual style to save wear and tear on a knee injured several weeks ago. The California roll does not require a kick with one leg which had bothered Leete.

The Vike meet also announced that Wayne Cochran, sprinter, is in shape after being bothered by a charley horse for most of the season. If he's in form again he should place among the leaders in the two sprints.

SCORING one run in the third, three in the fourth, two in the fifth and one in the sixth, the Mellow Brew softball team won its first start in the American City league last night at Pierce park. The score was 7 and 3 and the loser was the Barn Tavern squad. Last year the Brews were the Ko-bal Taverns and won the first round title.

Gene Kloes and Red Cramer hurled for the Mellow Brews and allowed four hits. Kloes fanned one and Cramer nine while Kloes walked two and Cramer two. Doerfler tossed for the Taverns and allowed nine safeties fanned two and walked six. The Taverns had four errors and the Brews two.

The Barn Taverns were the first to score with three runs in the third. Vogt opened with a hit, went to second on a passed ball, and scored along with Brandt, who drew a walk, on a hit by Doerfler. The latter scored when Rippl missed a ball into left field hit by Wetzel.

Mellow Brews got back one run in their half the third and then went ahead in the fourth. In the fourth Kranzsch opened with a hit but was forced at second on Rippl's grounder. Rippl then stole second, went to third on a hit by Burton who also pilfered second. Stojakovic walked and Rippl and Burton scored on a hit by Bauers. Stojakovic went to second. The latter scored on Cramer's hit and from then on the Brews led the ball game.

E. Kloes started on the hill for the Brews but left when the Taverns staged their big inning. Cramer replaced him and allowed only one hit. Kranzsch was the leading hitter with three hard drives in four attempts. Bauers got two for two.

Augie Galan Will Be Big Stick Man For Chicago Cubs

Chicago—(AP)—It may be Augie Galan, the National league freshman sensation of 1937, who again will steer the Chicago Cubs pennant-ward.

Manager Charley Grimm, groping for the trick that would turn on the Cubs, potential batting power, has shaken up the lineup to move Galan, until this year a lead off man and acknowledged one of the best, to the No. 5 spot.

Yesterday Galan got three hits that pocketed him into the .300 class.

"I feel like hitting and I am hitting," exclaimed the "bust" of the 1936 season and the "flying one" of 1937, when ankle and tonsils took turns aggravating him.

"But now I feel swell. I've put on between 10 and 15 pounds and weigh around 170. I am hitting the ball harder."

Fighting Fox Gets Chance to Redeem Himself in Preakness

BY HERBERT O'KEEFE

Baltimore—(AP)—Before roaring, restless thousands, Fighting Fox and Bull Lea will seek in tomorrow's $70,000 Preakness to trample into forgotten shreds the formidable question marks they stamped on themselves with disappointing Kentucky derby performances.

Their records, from birth on, almost shout that they should be able to race with the stretch-running Dauber, long-shot in the derby for which Fighting Fox was 7-5 favorite and Bull Lea the heavily played second choice.

Fighting Fox, never out of the money last year, galloping winner of his two pre-derby starts this year, is a full brother of Gallant Fox and Gallant Fox won the 1930 derby, Preakness and Belmont classics.

Bull Lea, in the money in six of his 1937 races, created two track records in as many starts at Keeneland this year. His breeding—by Bull Dog out of Rose Leaves—gives him speed from his sire, stamina from his dam.

Dauber, logical choice on the basis of his derby performance, is ready to carry the colors of William Dumont Jr. in the male and three-sixteenths test.

Can't Wait, Myron Selznick's little colt which ran third in the Derby, will seek Preakness honors under a new but very able jockey—George Woolf. The field of 10 probable starters includes one filly, Anafame.

Of the five others, only Hal Price Headley's Mellow Brew, juvenile champion of 1937, is given much of a chance to share in the split of the pot of gold.

Angleworm Death Knell Sounded As General Fishing Season Opens

MADISON—(AP)—Lowly angleworms wriggled in the pudgy fingers of many a Wisconsin boy today while fathers spaded fallow garden spots in search of bait for the first day of fishing.

Few of that group need to be told the season on all common varieties of fish, except muskellunge, large and small mouth black bass, will open throughout the state Sunday. The weekend will mark the first big tourist movement of the season.

B. O. Webster, state fisheries superintendent, expects some 750,000 persons to cast their lines into Wisconsin lakes and streams during the summer. They will include expert fly and bait casters—who will pay a license fee of $1 for the privilege—and thousands of cane pole users.

Set Record
The state set a record last year in planting more than 1,000,000,000 fish, most of which will be too small to keep this year, but which, nevertheless, enhance Wisconsin's boast of being the "fishermen's paradise" of the middle west. The restocking program is underway again this season. Thirty-four hatcheries have been distributing fry for weeks.

Surprises are in store for some future fishermen if the conservation department's plans are successful. Thousands of locally muskellunge, biggest and fightin' of the state's native game fish, have been transplanted to southern waters and lake trout are reported thriving in one big inland lake.

"Some southern fisherman, who has been accustomed to catches of lazy bullheads and catfish, is going to get a big thrill some day when a muskie takes hold of his line," Webster said.

Conduct Surveys
It would be impossible, the veteran fisheries director said, to propagate all kinds of fish in every section of the state because of water pollution and other factors, but the department has made extensive scientific studies to determine the right kind of fish for each locality.

"We would like to give every boy and girl a chance to whittle out a willow pole, add a common string line and hook, and go to the lake or stream in the neighborhood for a 'bit of fishin' fun,'" Webster said. "Panfish are being planted far and wide to make this possible."

The large and small mouth bass season does not open until June 20 because of the extended spawning season and the conservation department has appealed to fishermen to refrain from disturbing or throwing lures within striking distance of the nests.

Bag Limits
The muskellunge season opens May 25. Legal size and bag limits of other common varieties which may be caught Sunday are:

Trout—15 a day—7 inches; walleye—15 a day—12 inches; northern pike—3 a day—17 inches; white bass—15 a day—7 inches; rock bass—15 a day—7 inches; catfish—15 a day—15 inches; sunfish, bluegill—30 a day—6 inches; perch—25 a day—6 inches; bullheads—30 a day—6 inches; crappie, calico, silver and strawberry bass—25 a day—7 inches.

"Fishermen who hook an undersized fish will give it a better chance to survive if they will wet their hands before removing it and returning it to the water," Webster said. "Put the small ones back where they can grow and we'll have better fishing next year."

Schwank to Referee In Little 9 Conference

Kimberly—Ray Schwank has received notice from Herbert Simons, secretary of the Little Nine conference, that he has been named one of the referees for the conference basketball race. Mr. Schwank, who has been refereeing basketball games for about eight years, has officiated in independent games, as well as amateur tournaments, throughout the valley the last few years.

Walter Stewart Hangs Up Glove After 20 Years

Knoxville, Tenn. — (AP)—Walter Stewart, 37-year-old southpaw pitcher, hung up his glove today after having campaigned in the baseball wars for the last 20 years. The slender left-hander, given his outright release yesterday by the Knoxville Smokies, said he planned to return to his home at Crossville, Tenn., and resume a state job will lead to the Knoxville club. He left to join the Knoxville club, Stewart had led St. Louis, Washington and Cleveland in the American league.

Clarence Baetz was behind the plate for the winners and Postal caught for B'nai B'rith.

Both teams scored one run in the first inning and B'nai B'rith grabbed a 3-run lead in the third frame when Rattenberg hit a double. Blacher walked and Izzy Zussman hit his second double of the game. Shapiro followed with a double.

The Congo squad scored two runs in the fourth stanza when Sellers and Fraser drew walks and Burhans and Nolan hit singles. THE American Softball league, which has been having some of the tightest first-week games in its history, had another such contest last evening when the Fox River turned back the Kimberly-Clark entry, 3 to 2. A run in the last of the ninth decided the game.

Fox River opened with two runs in the first frame. Murphy beat out and infield hit, went to second on a wild pitch, third on an infield out and scored when Brockhaus beat out a bunt. Brock stole second and third and scored on a wild pitch. Branchford walked, but was out stealing second, and Rammer popped to Bill Pootter.

Kimberly got its two runs in the sixth. With one away, Buck LeMay got a hit over second, stole second and took third on a passed ball. McClone's infield hits scored him and Mac stole second and went to third on a wild pitch from where he scored on Goewens' fly to left.

Fox River won the game in the last of the ninth when Wegner walked and went to second on a wild pitch. Brockhaus fanned and Branchford grounded with Wegner going to third. Rammer then singled to left and Wegner galloped home and the game was over.

U. W. Sports Teams Busy This Week

Frosh-Varsity Grid Game Expected to be the Highlight

Madison—University of Wisconsin coaches and athletes are "all set" for the busiest weekend of the 1938 spring season, today and tomorrow with contests scheduled for all teams except the crew. All will be competing at home except the track team, which will engage Illinois in a dual meet at Champaign.

Featuring the weekend sports calendar are the two games of baseball with Iowa and the football game between the varsity and freshmen members of the spring squad, which will wind up the season, Saturday. In tennis, Coach Roy Black's Badgers were scheduled to face Chicago's Big Ten champions on the varsity courts this afternoon and Illinois' racquet wielders, tomorrow. Coach Joe Steiner's golfers will engage Ohio State's club swingers at Nakoma Country club, tomorrow, starting at 9:30 a. m.

The football game will start at 2:00 p. m.. To permit devotees of both sports to take in the football game and also the baseball game, the ball game with Iowa will start at 3:30 instead of half an hour earlier as is customary with Saturday ball games at Camp Randall. Interest in baseball is keenest at Wisconsin than for half a dozen years, due to the fine showing of Coach Douglas's team, and attendance at the Iowa games should be the largest of the season as the ultimate ranking of both nines will be more or less at stake in the games here. If either team can sweep the series, it will have advanced a long way toward the Big Ten title. By the same reasoning, if either team loses two here, it will be practically out of the championship race.

Interest in the football game appears keener than in the "Army Navy" clash which was rained out last week. Proceeds of the game are to be used to send the Wisconsin band to one of the big games this fall. An attendance of 5,000 is anticipated for the gridiron finale. As there will be no open football practice next fall, this game will be the last opportunity to see the 1938 Badgers in action until they play Marquette, Oct. 1.

HELEN WINS AGAIN
London—Helen Willis Moody easily defeated Sheila Paterson, 6-2, 6-2, today and entered the final round of the North London tennis tournament.
The veteran California's rival tomorrow will be Mrs. E. S. Law who won from Miss F. S. Ford, 6-4, 6-3 in the semi-finals.

COMMON SENSE CONSERVATION

GREEN BAY — Readers of this column know that in the matter of trout flies versus bait I am definitely on the fly side. When I say, "Lay off the worms" the reason I always give is this: Under-sized fish swallow bait, hook and all, then no matter how carefully the angler removes the barb the fish is a dead one soon after he is returned to the water. On the other hand, a fish never tries to devour an artificial lure, therefore, the hook of a fly never finds a spot more vital than the outer rim of the mouth.

I have been asked quite often what I thought of the Conservation department's ruling last winter closing a seven mile stretch of the Brule to all but fly-fishermen. Now, I like fly-fishing for more reasons than the one given above—they are personal reasons—so I am prejudiced, and it is impossible for me to give an unbiased opinion on this question of closing the Brule. From a purely conservation standpoint, however, no one can deny that the order was a good one for the reason, as above stated, that small trout hooked on flies do not die when carefully released and returned to the water.

That may sound like a trivial reason, but in the average trout stream today few fish become 'age' without having been hooked at least once since 'minnowhood'. When we consider the money and effort expended by the Conservation department in hatching, rearing and planting trout, and remembering that an ever growing proportion of the trout we find in our streams are hatchery-raised fish we can easily see why the department should continue to be interested in these fish after they have been planted.

But bait-fishermen in Douglas county thought there were other reasons why the Conservation Department wanted part of the Brule closed. They further contended that the law was unfair and undemocratic—that it barred the poor man who could not afford a fly-fishing outfit and a fishing license. Come to think of it, however, about half of the miles of trout streams in the state are barred to fly-fishermen by nature on account of brush. All the small, brushy streams inaccessible to fly fishermen are bait-fishing reserves. Considering this, was the order closing a few miles of Brule so unfair?

Nevertheless, opposition to the Conservation Commission's order to reserve part of the Brule for fly-fishing became so strong that the order was rescinded.

Now sportsmen in Marinette county have come forward with an offer to allow the closing of a part of the Peshtigo except to fly-fishermen. Originating in this case with the anglers themselves and being approved by interested citizens before the proposal goes to the Conservation Commission, such a measure should not arouse the opposition that the regulation to close part of the Brule received.

Marinette county anglers are to be commended for their willingness to cooperate by letting the Peshtigo, their most important trout water, be used in this experiment.

Values of Suits Same In Five-Suit

BY ELY CULBERTSON

Biddable suits: Same as in contract bridge. Shade these minimums down to Q 10 x x x, K x x x, or A x x x for responses or for rebids in a new suit. Minimum trump support for an opening bid: At least four trumps, or A K x, A Q x, or K Q x. Suits which have been considered rebiddable purposes at five-suit bridge. Avoid rebidding A Q x x, A J 10 x x, and Q J 10 x x.

Choice of suits: Same as in contract. Bid longest suit first. Avoid bidding three-card suits. Do not mentally add the widow card to a suit of only three cards in order to make a biddable four-card suit. It is all right to "add" the widow to a four-card or longer suit. However, in choice of bids, prefer a natural five-card suit to a manufactured five-card suit.

Responses to opening suit bids of one: Pass with less than 11 honor tricks unless you have 10 cards in two suits, in which case respond with one honor trick.

Single raise: Requires four trumps and one honor trick with a singleton; or 11 honor tricks with a doubleton, or 2-plus honor tricks with no short suit.

Double raise (forcing to game): Requires at least four trumps, 21 honor tricks with a singleton, or three honor tricks with a doubleton.

Triple raise: A jump raise from one to four, nonforcing, is substantially shutout in character. It requires at least five trumps, always a natural singleton or void not in the widow suit, and less than two honor tricks. With very unbalanced distribution, such as 6-5-3-1-1, 3 honor trick, or even less, is sufficient.

No trump takeouts: Respond with one trump to an opening suit bid of one when holding 11 to 21 honor tricks and no biddable suit (prefer a one-over-one shaded suit takeout). Two no trump responses (not forcing) require no biddable suit, no proper raise, balanced distribution, and three to four honor tricks. Three no trump responses require four to five honor tricks, no proper raise, and distribution exactly 4-3-3-3.

"One spade was the correct response. West opened the king of hearts and, for reasons best known to himself, East played the deuce, thereby failing to echo. West cashed the heart queen, but then decided to show his diamond strength. He laid down the king and, when declarer quickly ducked, continued with the diamond king. Declarer won this and immediately ruffed a diamond with the spade deuce. He then led to his club ace, back to the club king, and ruffed a club with the spade three. He then led the heart king to throw West on lead. East discarded his last club. West returned the jack of diamonds, and at this point declarer was able to count that East was reduced to trumps. Dummy discarded a club and East had to ruff with the spade six. Now, reduced to the A-Q-9 of trumps, East had a grand opportunity to take two of the last three tricks, but he muffed it. Actually he laid down the ace of spades (dropping West's 10) and then had to lead into the combined North-South trump tenace, giving declarer the last two tricks. What he should have done, as a play that had nothing to lose and possibly something to gain, was lead the queen of spades. Declarer then would have been helpless. He would have taken the king, but would have had to concede the last two tricks to the ace and nine.

Suggests Exercises for Well-Formed Shoulders

Strapless evening gowns have been the vogue through the winter and the fashion is promised in summer gowns, too. Bette Davis poses in a strapless frock she wore in a recent picture.

BY ELSIE PIERCE

A man volunteers the information that the strapless décolletage of this season's evening gowns should mean lovelier shoulders at the beach in bathing suits this coming summer.

His point is that no woman would dare expose her shoulders unless they were worth exposing. . . straight, white, no hollows, no pads.

Even though he wishes to remain anonymous, it is a relief to know that there is one blue-blood among them who ventures a word of comment instead of criticism.

It is true. Have you seen any scrawny, hunched, unlovely arms, shoulders, chest and necks atop the shoulderless décolletage? I haven't. Granted that only those who have beautiful uppers would show them. At the same time it makes others jealous and zealous to perfect the features that Fashion puts in the limelight. There's no reason why Fashion shouldn't have strapless bathing suits, you know.

Exercise

A few simple exercises will give you that straight beautiful line, will fill in hollows under the collarbone.

First, deep breathing is just about the finest exercise to firm the bust, round the chest and help the upper area generally.

Arm circling is excellent. Arms out at shoulder level, palms up—make large circles, with shoulders as axes. Now, bend elbows at shoulder level and do some shoulder circling, rolling them up, back, forward.

Repeat only a half dozen times at first and gradually add.

Massage

Treat your neck, arms, shoulders and even chest as part of the face.

Old Gardener Says:

Some garden makers report difficulty with the Tahoka daisy because the seeds germinate poorly. The remedy for this trouble is a simple one, although it may seem a little odd. It is simply to keep the packet of seeds in the ice box for about three weeks. It is best to plant the seeds where the plants are to grow and the seedlings should be cultivated lightly as soon as they appear. The value of this charming annual is just beginning to be appreciated. It makes compact bushes about a foot high and is covered with daisy-like flowers, lavender-blue in color, throughout late summer.

Science in Detective Work

V—THE LIE DETECTOR

In recent years, science has given police officers a new weapon to fight against crime. It is a machine which helps to prove whether or not a person is guilty when he is accused of breaking the law. One purpose is to find out who committed the crime, but another purpose is to save those who are innocent from being punished.

As time goes on, the use of the lie detector may become as widespread as the use of fingerprints. A good place to use the lie detector would be for witnesses in court who have sworn to tell "the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth."

There are two good reasons to find out who has been guilty of a crime. One is to show that persons who commit crimes are punished. The other is to keep the public from danger of other crimes by the same wrong-doer.

Great numbers of convicts have brains of low power. They may not be feeble-minded, but they are dull-witted, and there is no telling when they might commit the same sort of crime over again. Others have an insane streak in them, and are dangerous when they grow angry. Still others are bitter because of some real or fancied wrong done to them. They forget that it is foolish "to take the law in one's own hands."

Now and then we may hear that such and such a criminal is "smart," but is any man really smart if he follows a life of crime? Time and again he may escape officers of the law but how can he be happy when he is a hunted man? Always he has the fear that he will be caught, and he cannot have peace when he rests his head on a pillow at night.

Tomorrow: A Little Saturday Talk. (Copyright, 1938)

Parents Should Remember Children's Growth Varies

BY ANGELO PATRI

All babies are attractive, and they are all unusually bright to their fathers and mothers. "He is the smartest little thing," says mother enthusiastically. "He reaches for the leg of the chair and pulls himself up and takes the Teddy Bear by the foot. Imagine that."

Yes, he is smart, of course he is. But is this thing that he does unusual in a child of eighteen months? The answer is, No, it is not unusual. It is what the child could be expected to do.

A baby boy, ten months old, has not yet begun to talk. His sister could say several words at that age. Is the boy backward? Again the answer is, No. Little boys are often slower than little girls in talking. Most children begin to say words about the end of the first year, but it takes another year before they string words in phrases and short sentences. Don't be alarmed if your child is not talking clearly when two years of age. If he says no word at all, if he makes no effort to talk, then consult your physician. But remember, children vary in development. Some are faster than others. If your child is thriving, eating, playing; if he is showing interest in what is going on, give him time and he will arrive.

Some children begin to walk by the time they are one year old, but I have known perfectly healthy, highly intelligent children who have not walked until after the second year. Of course these children were exceptions, but the exceptions tell us not to worry but to wait in patience.

Don't force a child to sit up or stand or walk. Give him a chance to help himself and he will. Don't run in fear and pick him up when he falls. He is learning. Look the other way, encourage him by saying, "Up-sie, John. Try again." Let him roll over and get back on his feet without your help. You will know by the quality of his cry whether he is really hurt, whether he needs help and comfort.

Teeth begin coming in at the age of six months, usually by the end of the first year. They should be closed by the end of eighteen months. If not, it is time to call the physician in charge of the child.

There are charts that set forth the proper weight and height for babies. These charts are for the imaginary, normal child. They give you a general idea of what to expect. If your baby's weight varies from that on the chart don't worry until you have decided about the characteristics of your own child. Once I was very troubled because a child in my school was so tiny and so light. He was much smaller and much lighter than the charts called for. Then I saw his father and his mother. They were no bigger than an eight-year-old boy. I knew then that the child was right for him. That's why I say study the characteristics of your child. Do not measure him by any other child in the family or the neighborhood. Children come by ones. Charts and tests are helpful, but only in a general way. They give you a hint. Your own child, as he is, gives you the true story. Study him. His way is right for him.

PARTY PREPARATIONS

Dear Mrs. Post: I am giving a party called a dessert-bridge. This type of party seems to be very popular in this community, in which I have not lived for very long. At every dessert-bridge I have been to since I came, the hostess serves cocktails in the living-room and then asks us into the dining-room for a dessert and coffee. To me this seems a curious time to serve cocktails, just after lunch which we've had at home. Do you think I should omit the cocktails, as I would like to, or do you think I should fall in step with local custom?

Answer: To make any change in the custom of a community which you are a stranger is seldom a wise thing to do, and yet I agree with you thoroughly. I can't imagine anything more inappropriate than the serving of cocktails between courses. Certainly it would seem better to serve port or liqueurs after the dessert with your black coffee—as is the conventional thing to do—while you are a stranger.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am giving a lunch party for about thirty at the country club, and am a little perplexed about the kind of invitations which should be sent for this party. Are my visiting cards used and if so, what about the house address engraved on them?

Answer: Visiting card invitations are used almost entirely for stand-up lunches or suppers or dinners but not for sit-down meals. You should write your invitations on the front sheet of note paper either in the third person or the second. The third person would be extremely formal; the second would be informal. This third person note is worded:

Mrs. Henry Jones requests the pleasure of (name of guest) company at luncheon on Wednesday, the eighteenth of May at half after one o'clock at The Greentree Country Club.

The note written in the second person follows this general idea: Dear Jane: Will you lunch with me at the Greentree Country Club on Wednesday, the 18th of May, at half after one o'clock? Affectionately, Miriam Jones. Or, if the invitation is to some one you don't know very well, you begin your letter, Dear Mrs. Smith, and end it, Hoping so much to find you disengaged. Very sincerely yours, Miriam Brown Jones.

HOLLYWOOD LIGHTS CAMERA ACTION HAPPENINGS

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood—"Four Men and a Prayer" is a globe-trotting adventure. It sounds notes reminiscent of "The Three Musketeers" but winds up on its own power as a pretty good movie.

The four men are George Sanders, David Niven, William Henry and the new English young man, Richard Greene.

The prayer is not, as one might assume, a solemn, earnest, and tearful prayer, but a prayer for a good time, a prayer for a good time, a prayer for a good time.

Loretta Young—Loretta Young, but an earnest resolve to "get" the intriguers who discredited and later murdered the boys' army officer father (C. Aubrey Smith).

Jumping back and forth from England to America to India to South America to Egypt, the story packs a great deal more power and suspense in its early and middle stages than at the end. But it offers excitement enough, and there is a good deal of light comedy supplied by Niven, Bill Henry and Miss Young. Director John Ford seldom lets Loretta or her wardrobe hide the adventurous aspects of his tale, and he presents one whale of a sequence in which J. Edward Bromberg shows the kind of acting Hollywood isn't using enough.

The new boy, Greene, was taken to the ladies' hearts for his looks as well as capable performance, but in the acting department George Sanders is the stand-out. With David Niven uncommonly good in a blend of serious and comic characterization.

More Melodrama

"Stolen Heaven" is unusual in its combination of classical music with a fast cops-and-robbers melodrama. Gene Raymond and Olympe Bradna play the jewel thieves who, making their escape from pursuing police, seek refuge in a woodland home which turns out to be the abode of an aged concert pianist (Lewis Stone). Olympe's soft-hearted objections, Gene persuades the tattering old man to stage a comeback, a plan which would give Gene and

Difficult to Distinguish Between Love, Infatuation

BY DOROTHY DIX

A group of coeds asks me how they can tell whether the feeling that is throbbing within their young breast, as the old song says, is an enduring passion that will last as long as they live or just a passing case of puppy love.

DOROTHY DIX

I wish that I could give them some reliable recipe for diagnosing their symptoms, but alas, science has devised no more fallible formula for testing love than it has for tuberculosis and cancer. We still have to guess at what ails us and wonder if the fluttering of our pulses and that "gone" feeling when He or She approaches indicates that we are suffering from a fatal heart malady that will in time take us off to the altar, or whether what we are experiencing is just a slight cardiac upset that will yield to the absent treatment and be completely cured by the sight of a new good-looker.

And this is a pity, because there is so much other one thing in the world that is so much needed as some way by which the young can distinguish between the grand passion and infatuation, some sure method by which they can tell whether they are in love for keeps or have merely a temporary fancy for one of the opposite sex.

It is a crime of nature that the individual cannot even fathom his own emotions with accuracy or know how long his temperature will remain stationary, or foretell whether a woman will still be the light of his eyes or a pain in the neck six months hence. It is because of the people who thought they were in love when they were not in love that we acquire rheumatism in our shoulders from the tears of the unhappily married.

So, things being as they are, it is difficult to give the young any tips on how to ascertain the real state of their affections. But there is one piece of advice I can offer them that will save them trouble and divorce and alimony if they will heed. It is this: Mistrust adolescent love. Don't take it seriously. Don't let what you think you feel for a boy or girl lead you into putting a mortgage on your future that will bankrupt you in happiness when it is foreclosed. Bear in mind that you know nothing about the passions of grown men and women, nor what they need and desire in their mates. Also remember that you are still growing and changing, and that you do not even know what you will be yourself when you are a man or woman.

Sometimes it is true that puppy love lasts, but this does not often happen. Don't risk it. Give yourself a chance. Wait until you can stand the mature test, a knowledge of the world and ripe judgment to settling the question of whether you are in love or not.

As good a test of love as any is how much of the society of the party without yawning. Any boy and girl can imagine themselves in love if they only see each other on gala occasions when they are all dressed up and powdered and perfumed, and when they have a backdrop of moonlight nights with music throbbing in the distance, and when their conversation consists of singing each other's praises.

The real test of love is whether they look good to each other in their working clothes and whether they have anything to say to each other after they have run out of lovers' talk. Any love that survives a week's constant companionship in August may justly be regarded as a good sporting risk.

Still another test of love is being able to see the adored ones with all of their faults thick upon them without being disillusioned. Anybody could love Prince Charming or Miss Perfection, but it is real love when you think Sally's pug nose is piquant and call her temper "nerves" and think the way she bosses you around is just cunning; or when you love all of Tom's fussing and his peculiarities just because they are his. Try to get out on your piano and it will give you a mighty good idea of whether or not you are in love.

And, of course, the final test of love is usefulness. As long as you prefer your own pleasure, as long as you put your own happiness before that of another, the only person with whom you are passionately in love is yourself. "Love seeketh not its own." When you give up your favorite hair-do and leave off lipstick and rouge and flamboyant finger-nail polish and go around looking like a frump because John thinks he likes natural girls; when you let Sally pick out the movies and order the dinners and drag you to parties that bore you, you are in love. And no mistake.

Director Andrew L. Stone's use of music—Liszt, Chopin et al.—to further his story is interesting. Miss Bradna acts more like Snow White than like a tough adventurer, but she has charm and sings and dances well.

A Musical

"Doctor Rhythm," one suspects on sober reflection, is really not Bing Crosby's best picture but it seems so at very frequent intervals in its running. Based on O. Henry's story, "The Egg of Columbus," O'Roon, it sometimes forsakes plausibility for convenience as when a hunted crook (Fred Keating) appears at a policeman's benefit to get the girl (Mary Carlisle) whom he doesn't really love. This makes it possible for O'Roon (Andy Devine) and the young doctor masquerading as O'Roon (Bing) to capture him in a garrison finish.

Frank Tuttle's clever direction helps, but what sets "Doctor Rhythm" apart for us is the distinctive comedy of Beatrice Lillie, here making a triumphant return to pictures where once, nine years ago nobody understood her. When Miss Lillie goes shopping for "two dozen double damask dinner napkins," and the clerk is Franklin Pangborn, the house is likely to react as the preview audience did, with sustained hysteria.

Bing himself goes pleasantly through the usual romance with the leading lady, croons to his fans' taste, and breaks precedent by kissing the girl—once.

"IN MY DEMONSTRATIONS I FIND THAT THE NEW IMPROVED RINSO GIVES RICHER, LONGER-LASTING SUDS THAT IT WASHES CLOTHES WHITER AND BRIGHTER IN TUB OR MACHINE"

says Mary Ann Kidd famous home-making expert

"ALTHOUGH I've tried many different brands of soaps Rinsol has always been my favorite. Since Rinsol has been improved—and now gives, cup for cup, over 25% more suds than the old—rich, longer-lasting suds—it's the one soap I'm truly anxious to have the women in my audience use in tub, washer and dishwasher. Always tell the women how much whiter and brighter Rinsol gets clothes from tub or machine. How it soaks out dirt, often in as little as ten minutes, without scrubbing or boiling. And how safe the New Improved Rinsol is for colors and hands."

Menasha Organization Will Wear Gowns for Commencement Program

Menasha — The a cappella choir of Menasha High school will appear at the senior class commencement exercises on June 2 in new gowns, according to the announcement today from F. B. Younger, superintendent of schools.

Fifty gowns have been ordered for delivery within two weeks after bids from five firms were considered. The robes are being purchased by the music department out of funds earned by the department. The present robes of the choir, "H. M. S. Pinaflore," netted approximately $160 for the robe fund.

The robes are patterned after church choir robes, Franklin Le Fevre, vocal music supervisor, explained. They have full pointed sleeves lined with silver satin. The material of the robe is corded blue silk. There will be a box and knife placed down the front of the robe with shirring across the shoulders and back.

A stole of silver satin, finished in pennant design, will be worn over the robe and will match the lining of the sleeves. Service stripes will be worn on the front of the stole. As none of the members of the choir are seniors, all of the stoles will have service stripes.

The members of the choir were measured so that the fit of the gowns will be perfect.

State Ready to Approve Menasha Pact With Utility

City Will Buy Wholesale Power Instead of Enlarging Plant

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—The state public service commission today was putting the finishing touches on an order which would end a year old discussion of the proposed expansion of the facilities of the Menasha municipal electric utility system.

Due to reach city officers in a few days is an order which will give formal state approval to an agreement between the utility and the Wisconsin Michigan Power company under which the municipality will buy power from the private corporation at wholesale rates. The commission has indicated that it will approve the installation of a sub-station and the necessary equipment to carry out such an arrangement.

The wholesale power purchase plan replaces an earlier application by the city last year for permission to install a new steam generating system to increase its power facilities to keep pace with increasing customer demands.

That proposal was displaced by the new contract between the city and the private utility for wholesale power purchase. It provides that the city will not accept customers who need more than 50 kilowatts of power and that it will not solicit them, while the power company will not accept or solicit residential or small consumption commercial customers.

Recently the commission approved plans of the city for the installation of the necessary new equipment, the purchase of land and the erection of a small building for the sub-station. In a few days an order approving the company's share of the project, amounting to $6,000, and including metering equipment, lighting arresters and oil circuit breakers, will be completed, commission officials reported Thursday afternoon.

The entire project, it is estimated, will cost less than $70,000.

Adriel Society Sponsors Mother, Daughter Banquet

Neenah—A good mother is a wise woman, thoughtful, not swift to speak, who accepts children as a sacred trust, who loves, comforts and is a friend in need, Mrs. Hans Peterson told mothers and daughters attending the annual Mother and Daughter banquet sponsored by the Adriel society at Our Saviour's Lutheran church Thursday evening at the church as she declared that mothers today are groping with the serious problem of being mothers, a difficult job. Every daughter, said the speaker, is entitled to a good mother but if that daughter had a right to select her mother, would she have selected the one she has?

Mrs. Peterson mentioned some of the Biblical mothers, Sarah, Rachel, Hannah, Elizabeth and Mary, the mother of Jesus who, she stated, "is the heart of the motherhood of the world." "Search where you will," Mrs. Peterson said, "there are but two mothers who are the best in all the world, your mother and mine."

Discussing the other partner in the relationship of mother and daughter, Mrs. Peterson stated that she believed daughters should be loving, obedient and respectful of parental laws, state and national laws and obedient and reverent to and of the laws of God.

Above all, the speaker declared, a daughter should "walk becomingly in the day" and possess a spirit of service. "While this may not appeal to the modern daughter," Mrs. Peterson declared, "don't you wish it would?"

Program Follows Dinner The program following the dinner opened with a song, "Faith of Our Fathers" after which Mrs. Gordon Mortenson sang "Golden Memories." Mrs. James Dyreby acting as piano accompanist, Christine Jersild gave a reading, "The Minister's Blunder" by Mark Twain. Janet Dyreby and Marguerite Jersild sang a duet, "Love's Old Sweet Song." Mrs. Dyreby accompanying them.

Mrs. Alfred Jensen gave two readings, "Good Women" and "Going to Church." Mrs. Leo Boehm and Mrs. C. McDana sang "Mother of Mine." Mrs. Val Bastar accompanying at the piano.

Mrs. Ove Moller gave a humorous reading, "Mother Knows" and Lois Dyreby, "Barbara Jersild, Esther Jersild and Ardis Anderson sang "Mother's Old Sweet Lullaby." Mrs. Dyreby accompanying at the piano.

The Rev. Alfred Jensen, pastor of Our Saviour's Lutheran church, spoke briefly on the insight, vision and understanding of mothers and the importance of being the right kind of parents. He contended that unless the youth were instilled with the respect of the authority of their parents, there wasn't much that could be done for boys and girls. He contended that the new system of education today is all wrong because it appears to foster this lack of respect for parental authority, the acceptance of parental no's.

Mrs. N. C. Jersild was in charge of the evening program, introducing the speakers and program participants.

Both Mrs. Dyreby and Mrs. Jersild were in charge of program arrangements for the Mother and Daughter gathering last evening. Dinner committee members were Mrs. Jersild, Mrs. E. Jersild, Mrs. Alfred Mortenson, Mrs. Harry Zemlock, Mrs. Sander Holverson and Miss Mae Peterson.

Chapter 46
Love And Pride

Reuben continued to stare at the mountains.

Cissy watched him through a moment of profound desperation. His silence told more plainly than words the hopelessness of her cause. She said, "I could put you on top of the world."

"I'll put myself there, youngster. Watch me."

"How?"

"If Judith cares it will be easy." It was the old Reuben speaking. The eagle, eager to soar again. "Ready, slow poke?"

This, then, was the end! The end of what was to have been her perfect day. And she was the one who had vowed never to compromise with life! Vowed to accept no second-ones—

Even now she had not given up. There must be a way! If— if she just flew straight ahead, at not too great an altitude and at full speed, she'd crash beautifully into the Lode Ridge. Go whirling down, down. Take Rube with her—

She turned and swung herself up the plane's side with the agility of a monkey. "All aboard! We're on our way, big boy!"

She settled herself securely in the pilot's seat, while Reuben climbed into his place behind her. Neither saw nor heard Pike running towards them waving a letter—

"Hey, hey! Special delivery! Held up in the Christmas jam—"

Cissy took off. She didn't see the field. Didn't see the controls. Didn't see anything. What difference did it make? If she flew furiously and low—for five miles—

"But I won't do it!" Cissy upbraided herself scornfully. "I'm too darn decent! A tough guy up to a point, then I turn mushy and remember all sorts of things I want to forget!"

She felt tears on her cheek— hot, rebellious. She bit her lips hard, to keep back a groan. Glad Rube was behind and couldn't see her face. Glad the propeller made such a noise it matched the tumult within her—almost—

"I've fought a sneaky fight and lost. Serves me right," Cissy told herself severely. "but I feel like—like—if hell is a place of self torture—I'm there."

Gradually the mist cleared from her eyes. She saw the compass. "I don't want to fly true," defiantly she shouted it at Reuben. "but I will."

Quickly she changed her course. Lifted. Now to get there quickly. Straight as the crow flies. Three years ago she had taken from Judith what looked like happiness. Today she was bringing the real thing back to her. In a few hours she would land in that same meadow, lose her passenger. Then—

Cissy didn't know what. Pain gnawed at her heart like the claw of a leopard. The end of the world was a long, long way—

Heaven Or Hell?

To Reuben, Maryland was the end of the world and—the beginning! He was on his way to Maryland—to Judith. What he would say to her he did not know. He only knew that the first words that passed between them would decide whether life was to be a thing of pain or ecstasy, heaven or hell. If it was to be the latter he hoped Cissy would fumble. Send him crashing down—

One glance at her squared shoulders, at her small hand upon the stick, assured him that Cissy would not fumble. Though the end of the fight meant Paradise for him and purgatory for her, Cissy was heading toward it swift, brave, true as a swallow on the wing. Stout fellow! Cissy!

Terribly he longed to tell her so even while he was glad that the noise of the propeller made it impossible. Words were such futile things—if only he could find the right ones for Judith—If only Judith would be glad to see him! If she needed him—

The sun, rosy and heartening, was rising over the Goodloe meadow when Cissy, after circling a half dozen times, floated down to an easy landing. "We made good time, Rube," she loosened her helmet. "Cissy," he stretched his taut muscles, "you must be dead tired." He climbed from the cockpit and turned to help her down. "When Amos has fed you, promise me you'll sleep the clock around."

She would sleep the clock around but not at Goodloe's Choice. A hotel in Baltimore was better—any place where she could not witness Reuben's reunion with Judith was better—there was a limit to everything. "I'll send flowers for poor Jim and I'll see Judith later."

"Cissy, if you knew how grateful I am for everything—if you knew—"

Gratitude was the one thing that Cissy could not stand. Knew she did not deserve. Hastily she re-tightened her helmet. "Happy landings, big boy, and good luck all the way!" She waved a casual hand and set the plane's engine humming.

Hatless, motionless, Reuben watched it take the air, then, breathed deeply, like a swimmer about to plunge, he started across the meadow. The branch was high this morning, its edges ice-coated. He had to make a running leap to span it. Thin patches of snow lay here and there but in between adventurous blades of new wheat peeped up and straight ahead was the hedge!

Green, pungent in the frosty air, planted in tradition, nurtured on pride, it stood sturdy as a valiant old soldier on guard. Reuben ran his hand lightly over it—the price of his acceptance by the Goodloes! Well, many a man had bartered more for less. Once, because his dollars could save it, he had been welcome here. Today—?

Meeting

He drew his hand away. Maybe he had been a fool to come, a fool to hope—

He went doggedly on to the high level of the terraced lawn. He saw the house. Even the shadow of death upon it could not mar its air of hospitality, its dignity, its beauty, its comfort. No wonder Judith had longed for it; had despised what he had given her and now, with little better to offer her he was back.

He had an impulse to turn and run, but love, stronger than pride, sent him forward.

Judith, making sure that Gran was, at last, asleep, hurried down the wide stair and let herself softly out the front door. There was something she wanted to put in Jim's still hands before he went away on his last journey. Something that would speak of Goodloe's Choice and her love—a sprig of boxwood, and it beneath the dining-room window, buried close and warm under a blanket of fallen leaves, she could find a few of the big, purple violets Jim loved—

He stepped outside. The sun shone warm and commenced hurriedly to delve beneath the leaves. Ah—a violet—another—

She was still dazed from the tragedy of yesterday. All night long she had relived it again and again—Jim and Biddy were gone—Jim had promised to help her, rear her babies—her babies whose father did not want them; who hadn't answered her letter; who had spent Christmas with Cissy; who wanted to marry Cissy—

Lost in her thoughts, intent upon her search, Judith did not hear Reuben's steps upon the terrace. He had been standing beside her for a long, breathless second before she looked up and saw him. Strong, bronze, vital, his eyes held hers steadily. But she could not tell what was behind them. The words of Judith's letter mocked her. It was one thing to pour our words to an image in the heart. But it was another thing to see that image come alive before her, the man who had been a stranger to her for so many months, whose thoughts were a secret.

Suppose he had come to tell her that he and Cissy— Color drained from Judith's face. Her slim brown

Plywood Workers Local Asks That Boycott be Lifted

New London Organization Names New Committee For Negotiation

New London — Action to lift the boycott against products of the American Plywood corporation was voted by the Plywood and Veneer Workers, Local 2890, at a meeting Tuesday evening. The enforcement of the boycott was placed in the hands of the state union national labor union affiliations and these groups were requested Wednesday to drop the proceedings, according to Wallace Shirland, secretary of the New London local. The boycott was voted May 2 in an attempt to force the company into a union contract.

The union's bargaining committee of seven was discharged as a group at the Tuesday meeting and a new committee of three was named to draw up another revised agreement and do all future negotiating with the company. On the committee are Arnsy Rand, president of the local and chairman of the committee, Arnold Zitzke and Arnold Krenke. Demands for a closed shop have been admitted by both union and company officials as the greatest obstacle in securing an agreement. The request for a 10-cent an hour increase in wages is subject to controversial revision, according to union officers. A 40-hour week maximum is not in dispute.

At the meeting May 2, 97 votes were cast when the boycott action was decided by ballot. Fifty voted for the boycott, forty-two against, two for a strike and three ballots were blank. Membership in the union numbers nearly 200 and enlists all but a few of those employed at present. The withdrawal of the boycott was decided verbally by motion.
